

"WE'LL WIN" ---JEROME.

He Tells Acorns New York Will Not Let Indecency Triumph.

REV. PADDOCK SPEAKS.

Brands Deveryism and Police Partnership with Vice—Sharp Raps for Croker.

Justice Jerome ended his campaign today with a speech to 1,000 Acorns at Broadway and Leonard street.

"I have watched the growth of the Acorns," he said, "with the greatest of pleasure. It is to their credit that they have drawn from that English statesman who occasionally visits us a 'holier'."

"My fight is fought. I have every confidence in the result. I do not believe indecency can defeat decency or theft honesty in a city like New York. I believe the people can be depended on when the question of right and wrong is put to them."

"And now, in the words of the Acorns, 'it's up to you.'"

Cantor Flays Shepard.

Justice Jerome spoke for only five minutes, when Jacob A. Cantor followed. "I have heard with pleasure what has been said of Richard Croker. It was because of the good work done by the Acorns that Croker made the attack he did."

"Protect the purity of the city at all hazards. I am in no fear of tomorrow's result."

"Shepard has not the manly courage of Seth Low. Low has told you what he will do—that Devery's head will fall in the basket in five seconds. Shepard's high integrity all faded out when he went on the present ticket."

"You need not fear. Not only will Low but the whole county ticket will win."

Rev. Paddock's Charges.

The first speaker at the Acorn meeting was the Rev. Robert L. Paddock, of the Pro-Cathedral. He was introduced as the man who had really made the issues of the campaign.

"I do not believe a clergyman should discuss politics," he said, "except where morality is concerned."

"To me there is but one question at issue—the invasion of our homes and the dragging down of our wives and daughters to hell. Worst of all we mind the partnership with vice of those who are paid to protect us."

"Vice can be repressed, and we insist that it shall be—that our law-makers and protectors shall not be in it getting rich on 'blood money.'"

"We have sunk so low that we have to take as our rallying cry that we stand for 'honesty.' Blackmailers must be put down. We are accused of being corrupt. It is not wrong, however, to tell the truth. Even our judiciary is threatened, and it is time to sound a warning."

In closing Dr. Paddock said:

"We impeach the administration for trusts betrayed, taxpayers robbed, courts debauched, manhood and womanhood degraded, and intimidation at the polls. Let us go forth as men and do our duty."

Croker Attacked.

Chairman Johnson read Croker's attack on the Acorns, and then said:

"We've got a howl out of the hit dog—Richard Croker. Who are these paid villifiers?" he asked. "Does any one dare call Charles H. Webb or William King a paid villifier? They are the men who helped us with our enterprise. The Acorns have a clean record."

"Let Richard Croker tell what he's done with the campaign fund, the editors of Hearst's Chicago America who are being set for to-morrow, Counsel for the defense, however, filed an answer to the bill of information, charging contempt. A change of venue and a trial by jury were asked for."

The answer asserted that the matter published in the paper was in no way intended to embarrass the court, or to intimidate it, as charged. William R. Hearst, the paper avowed, is not responsible for what appears in the paper, being merely the majority stockholder.

It was also stated that if the newspaper has printed matter placing trusts in authority in contempt of court, Andrew Lawrence, its managing editor, should alone be held as he is responsible for all that goes into the paper.

AN ACCIDENT AT SEA.

The Jacob S. Winslow Describes an Encounter with the E. R. Kirk.

The American schooner Jacob S. Winslow, which arrived today from Buenos Ayres, reported that last Friday night, at 7 o'clock, while beating up the coast off Sea Girt, N. J., a large light schooner, running fast, fell across the Winslow's bow, snapping off the jib-boom and bringing down the head gear. The Winslow's bow crashed into the strange schooner's side, cutting her down to the water's edge.

In the confusion incidental to the collision the Winslow's anchor and the strange schooner drifted clear, at the same time her mainmast went by the board, carrying away the topmast, the topmast, as she was receding in the distance, in answer to queries from the Winslow, her position was given as the schooner E. R. Kirk, from New York for Virginia. As nothing was seen of her the following morning it is supposed that she proceeded or went to anchor under the land.

MURPHY WILL GUARD POLLS.

Commissioner Assures McCullagh that Police Will Do Their Duty.

KEEPING CLOSE WATCH.

Arrangements Made to Bar Out the Repeaters and Arrest All Criminals.

POLLS OPEN AT 6 A. M. AND CLOSE AT 5 P. M.

Get your vote in early. Polls open at 6 A. M. and close at 5 P. M.

Remember that they close sharp at 5 o'clock and that LAST YEAR SEVERAL HUNDRED PERSONS LOST THEIR CHANCE TO VOTE BECAUSE THEY WERE ON A WAITING LINE WHEN THE CLOCK STRUCK.

Police Commissioner Murphy to-day replied to the letter of Superintendent of Elections John McCullagh, calling upon the police for co-operation in preventing fraud on Election Day, as follows:

"This department will avail itself of the knowledge of its detectives and uniformed men to effect the arrest of all persons of the character described in your letter."

"While on this subject I am inclined to believe and have been informed that you have named persons in your communication who are not now living, such as 'Deafy' Price. You also mention 'Nutey' Fagin; the latter is a slang word among thieves and is applied to all persons of doubtful character."

"This department is anxious to have a peaceful and pure election and all the power at its command will be used to suppress unruliness wherever shown, and will also co-operate with and assist your department in every way to have a pure election."

"Every effort will be made to stop gangs of repeaters, which you refer to as coming from Pavana avenue and Grove street, Jersey City, and 'others from the Fourth Ward of that city,' and who, you say, are to work in the Ninth Assembly District of New York County."

"I have communicated with Chief of Police Murphy, of Jersey City, between whom and this department the greatest amity exists, and both departments will co-operate—first, to prevent repeaters leaving Jersey City, and second, if they should get here, to promptly arrest them."

"Close attention will be given to the statement made by you of the contemplated forays of repeaters from the Ninth Assembly District, and every effort will be made to stop them."

In closing Dr. Paddock said:

"We impeach the administration for trusts betrayed, taxpayers robbed, courts debauched, manhood and womanhood degraded, and intimidation at the polls. Let us go forth as men and do our duty."

Sadie Kuhn, seventeen years old, has been missing from her home at No. 112 West One Hundred and Thirty-ninth street, since Saturday night. BLANCHE LOUISE BOWERS LOSES SUIT AND HUSBAND.

Court Grants Absolute Divorce to Mr. Bowers, Who Named George M. Pullman as Co-Respondent—Wife Once an Actress.

Frederick V. Bowers received a decree of absolute divorce from Blanche Louise Bowers this afternoon from Justice McAdam, in the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Bowers was an actress at one time, and George M. Pullman, one of the sons of the late Sir George M. Pullman, the palace car magnate, who was knighted by King Humbert, was named as co-respondent in the action before Referee Edward Jacobs.

Members of the "McSorley Twins" company identified photographs of Mr. and Mrs. Barnes as portraits of former members of that company, and Patrick Francis, a reporter for a theatrical periodical, related that he called at the Hotel Grand in the evening of 1900 to verify a rumor that Mrs. George M. Pullman or Mrs. Sanger Pullman had secured a divorce in Chicago. He said he was shown up to a floor on which George and his mother, Sanger Pullman, had adjoining suites. He saw Sanger Pullman, who said the divorce might be against his mother George.

Thereupon Sanger Pullman led the inquirer into the other apartment. There he saw George Pullman, he said, partly dressed and lying on the floor. Mrs. Bowers was in the apartment, in bed, he testified.

"Mrs. Sanger Pullman was shocked at George Pullman's condition," the witness testified. "And when I asked him if his wife had got a divorce he was incoherent, but finally said he was too full to tell."

Travers said he recognized Mrs. Bowers because he had seen her in Jefferson Market Police Court, when she was fined $2 for striking her maid.

On this testimony Referee Jacobs recommended that a decree be granted. A H. Hummel opposed, but Justice McAdam granted it.

CONFESSES TO PERJURY.

Seymour Now Admits Ammon Put $140,000 of Miller Loot Into His Firm.

An admission of perjury was made today by Henry A. Seymour, of the defunct brokerage firm of Seymour, Johnson & Co., in which $100,000 of Miller Syndicate money was invested by Col. Robert A. Ammon.

He asked at a hearing before Referee Haley, in Brooklyn, that he be given an opportunity to correct and explain testimony which he had given at a former hearing to protect Col. Ammon, Miller's attorney.

Mr. Murray, of Couder Bros., conducted the examination.

Asked if he wished to correct his statement before Referee Smith that his firm had borrowed $225,000 from the Gossins, Seymour said:

"Yes, I do. Of that $225,000 $140,000 was the money put into the firm by Ammon. It was Miller Syndicate money."

"Did Gossin make an arrangement by which Ammon was to receive 40 per cent of the firm's profits?"

"He did."

"Were payments ever made of such profits?"

"Yes, I paid Mrs. Ammon $7,000; that was part of the profits."

"Can I testify that you got $10,000 in bonds from Gossin?"

"I wish to correct that. I got those bonds from Ammon at his office."

"How were the profits distributed?"

"Johnson took 50 per cent, and I took 50 per cent. Then of these shares we each paid 30 per cent in an envelope which was given to Gossin."

ANARCH'S SLAYER DENIES MURDER.

ANTONIO LIVENRO CHARGED WITH KILLING PANIZZONE.

Antonio Livenro, silk weaver, of No. 254 West Sixty-sixth street, was arrested at his home in a silk mill at Fifty-seventh street and Eleventh avenue to-day by Detective-Sergeants Petrosino and Price. With the detectives were Capt. Stuart, of the Summit, N. J., police and a son of Frank Panizzone, an anarchist board-house keeper, whom Livenro had murdered on March 17 last.

Panizzone's house was a favorite meeting place for the Group for the Right of Existence, which plotted the assassination of King Humbert. Bresel, the assassin, was a frequent visitor.

Livenro denied his guilt and announced his intention to go to Summit and prove his innocence.

PUT CANDLE OUT WITH TROUSERS.

BRUDER SLEPT TILL FIREMEN WOKE HIM.

Must Go Back to Work in Restaurant To-Night and Is Trying to Borrow Clothes.

All night long Albert Bruder carries food to hungry men in a restaurant. In the daytime Albert sleeps—some days.

He did not retire to his couch in a room in the building at No. 40 Eighth avenue until noon to-day. Lighting a candle on the mantel he undressed himself and got into bed. Then he discovered that he must put out the candle.

He was too tired to get up and blow it out. He threw the candle on the floor, he missed with the other shoe; he missed with his shirt, but finally hit the mark with his trousers, rolled over and went to sleep.

Rude firemen woke him up half an hour later. The room was in flames. He was dragged out and revived. Later in the day he was observed seeking to borrow raiment that he might resume his occupation of carrying food to-night.

THOUGHT HE WAS SANDOW.

Peculiar Effect of Tenderloin Liquor on Iron Molder.

Having consumed large quantities of Tenderloin liquor, Robert Fitzgerald, a gigantic iron molder, of No. 221 East One Hundred and Twenty-first street, became convinced that he was Sandow.

Entering a saloon at Twenty-ninth street and Sixth avenue he essayed to throw the bartender into the air and spin him. The bartender objected and smote Fitzgerald with a long piece of lead pipe kept behind the bar for such emergencies. It took four policemen to get the deluded iron molder to the Tenderloin police station.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR WIFE-MURDERER.

LUTHY PLEADS GUILTY BEFORE JUDGE NEWBURGER.

Crime Committed Because Man Was Jealous of Her Care of Canary Birds.

Edward Luthy, who killed his wife on July 7, at No. 635 East One Hundred and Sixty-ninth street, entered a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree before Judge Newburger to-day. He was given a life sentence.

Luthy was jealous of the attention his wife paid to some canary birds she owned. In a mad rage he killed the canary birds, threw his wife from the top floor of the tenement in which they lived and fired two shots at her while she was in the air. Both shots struck the woman.

The careful indictment drawn in the District Attorney's office made the date of the crime Aug. 7, and the location of the crime in the Borough of Manhattan, when really it occurred in the Borough of the Bronx.

The mistake was discovered by William F. Howe, the murderer's counsel. It became necessary to amend the indictment before Luthy could plead.

When the cases of Patrick McCabe and Paul Kelly, charged respectively with illegal registration and robbery, were called in the Court of General Sessions to-day, the defendants failed to respond. Their bail was declared forfeited and bench warrants were issued for their arrest.

McCabe is accused by Supt. John McCullagh of being at the head of a gang of repeaters in the Seventh Assembly District and of having registered illegally himself. Kelly was arrested both for robbery and illegal registration. He is said to be the leader of the "Hoops Gang," in Mulberry street.

TO THE THOUGHTFUL CITIZENS OF GREATER NEW YORK:

What may be the action of a Mayoralty candidate concerning the moral and social condition of our city can only be judged before election from the candidate's personal character and associates in the past. In this regard Mr. Low and Mr. Shepard stand upon the same plane. We can have no reason to believe that either would countenance any wrongdoing that the other would prevent.

But Mr. Low cannot be compared with Mr. Shepard in the quality of statesmanship, or in the ability to carry on a constructive administration. The great problems of tunnels and bridges involved in the question of inter-Borough communication are fresh in Mr. Shepard's mind because of his connection with the Rapid Transit Commission. Mr. Low would go out of office after two years without as much knowledge upon this subject as Mr. Shepard would possess at the beginning.

The next administration will be beset by many technical difficulties due to the construction of the great public works of the city now pending and the accompanying constitutional difficulties in securing the requisite money. It will require the united skill of the ablest lawyers and most conservative financiers to organize and continue the development of the city under the new charter. Business interests should take no chance. The commercial importance of the Port of New York depends upon the speedy completion of enterprises already under way.

Mr. Shepard is pre-eminently qualified to assume the direction of the city government from the outset of his term. Without a complete knowledge of the details of city affairs and of municipal law, the next Mayor cannot control himself or the government. Mr. Shepard possesses that knowledge. Mr. Low does not.
